

As Seen In FitPregnancy

the whole 9 months*

Does naming your baby take a village?

New Orleans Saints quarterback Drew Brees sent out a tweet: "My wife is due any day now with baby boy #2. We have a few names picked out but haven't decided yet. Looking for 'b' names. Suggestions?" Brees' off-field move is called "crowdsourcing," or asking the anonymous wisdom of the Internet for advice. For example, BabyNames.com's message board offers polls, along with requests for middle name suggestions and alternate ways to spell names.

"Good ideas can come from anywhere, so it's certainly possible to take inspiration from an online crowd," says BabyNameWizard.com creator Laura Wattenberg. Gathering ideas is one thing, but making a final decision? "Tastes vary wildly, and you can't please everyone," Wattenberg says. "So the people you should consider are your future child's own community, not distant strangers." And you didn't really want to name your daughter Katyrrynna, did you? — LORA SHINN

Your child's name is forever; keep that in mind when you choose one.

« YOUR BABY AT WEEK 24 The fetus weighs 1.3 pounds and is nearly a foot long. Taste buds begin to form, and the lungs are developing cells that produce surfactant, a substance that helps the air sacs inflate. Your baby is beginning to store fat and is officially considered viable if born now, though he would need a lengthy stay in the neonatal intensive-care unit (NICU).

click

Struggling to find the perfect name?

Check out top trends and celebrity favorites at fitpregnancy.com/babynames.

PHOTOGRAPHY: (from top) DAVID ROTH; NIEL BROMHALL; GIBBY IMAGES

100% UVA/UVB PROTECTION
ADJUSTABLE COMFORT BANDS
INNOVATIVE FRAMES AND STYLES
FOR KIDS AGES 0 - 12

It's time for Real Kids Shades.

RKS
REAL KIDS SHADES

RealKidsShades.com

JULY / JULY 2011

